Why does Canada Raise Money by Selling Bonds?

BONDS are issued payable in ten or twenty years, as the case may be. It means that repayment of the money will be spread over ten or twenty years instead of being raised by taxation to meet current expenditures. To raise by taxation all the money as fast as it is needed to carry on Canada's share in winning the war, would be an unbearable burden upon the people. It would mean that more than a million dollars a day would have to be raised right now.

But to raise money by selling Canada's Victory Bonds means that those of the next generation who will benefit by the sacrifices this generation is making;—who will share in the freedom this generation is fighting for and largely paying for—will also pay their share.

And when you buy Canada's Victory Bonds you make a first-class business investment in a security that is absolutely safe, likely to enhance in value after the war, and bearing a good rate of interest. You help the country by keeping open the British market for Canadian products and this helps the general welfare in which you share.

And again, every Canadian who buys a Victory Bond becomes a financial partner or backer of Canada in the war. When you buy a Canada Victory Bond you give a personal pledge that you are going to help to win the war.

Every man and woman in Canada can help to win the war by buying Canada's Victory Bonds. And Canada wants the personal, individual interest and co-operation of every man and woman in the country.

The buying of Victory Bonds by the whole people unites them in a determination to win the war.

Every purchase of Canada's Victory Bonds is a blow for freedom against the tyranny of German Kultur.

Every bond sold is a new guarantee that Canada is in the war to the finish, until victory is with the Allies and the world has been made safe to live in.

Every bond you buy is a new pledge that Canada will remain true to herself, the Empire, the Allies and to freedom's cause.

So it is both patriotic and good business to

Buy Canada's Victory Bonds

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.

He shook her with savage fury. Suddenly he let her wrists fall. An extraordinary change came over his face.

"I know who you remind me of," he said. "I've always known it. Only she's dead. She died ten years ago in the Richmond hospital—I'd think it was Kitty's hands that were hidden behind those infernal weals and scars that I can see even through that thing you wear."

She said nothing, only stood with her head bent, looking downwards. He went into the salle-a-manger; then came back to her again. "You did quite right to take that bottle from me," he said. "There's no excuse for me, for the bottle never had much attraction for me. Dolly, I've been infernally baffled and beaten of late."

Suddenly he took hold of the half-open door and left his forehead against it with an air of weariness and defeat.

"Here am I, Kitty," he said; she trembled as he used the name, but apparently he had used it unconsciously, "here am I, only wanting to do the straight thing. I want to marry little Dolly, to go away somewhere where the past won't follow me and begin a new life. And here in this infernal country we can't get married. Anyone could hold me; any educated person. That's what comes of being ignorant. No matter how clever you are you never catch up on those who have the education. They won't marry us. I'm at my wit's end. Dolly's not the sort to drag about the world unmarried. There've been times, when the drink was out of me, when I could have wished I'd let Dolly alone. I might have if it hadn't been for the other fellow, who has everything I haven't, damn him!"

Doubtless it was the drink in him spoke, but the compassion in Kate Bartlett's eyes was wonderful.

"Here I am with my neck in the noose," he went on, lifting his head and staring at her, "while every day I've tramped the country round looking for someone, priest, or notary, or anyone that would marry us. I'll have to move on after all—to where the laws are easier. This is too damned near England for me. It's dangerous."

Suddenly a look of fear came into his eyes. He was staring through the half glass door into the dark strip of garden outside.

"Infernal tricks that coarse brandy plays on a man!" he muttered. "You did well to take it away from me, my girl. Do you see how it sways up and down—the body of Michel Quenelle out there in the woodshed?"

She gazed in a fascinated horror the way he pointed. Something moved out there in the dark.

"I thought it was only Margot who did the poisoning to please her lover. Why should you or I see it? We never did Michel Quenelle any harm."

Her dry lips muttered a prayer. She moved nearer to him for companionship. There was something out there; something that moved slowly to and fro, as in a wind.

"It's the cursed brandy," Cooper said, giving himself a shake, as a big dog might coming out of the water. "What a fool I am! The life is telling on me. I'll see what it is, man or devil."

He went back to the salle a manger, took the lamp and went out to the woodshed. An old shepherd's crook hung from a rafter. Beyond that there was nothing, absolutely nothing.

CHAPTER XXII.

The Flight

The days passed, tense with expectation, but nothing happened. Cooper went out now but seldom, and then only when dusk had fallen. He rarely appeared before midday, and after a meal he would go back to his own room, where he would lie on his bed half asleep till dusk came to set him free to wander a while.

The evidences of his drinking were in the pallor of his face, the nervous jerkiness of his speech, his moroseness and irritability, his bloodshot eyes and trembling hand.

Two women watched him in these days with a growing terror. Kate Bartlett would look up and be aware that Margot's eyes were also on Cooper. Each was estimating the point at which he would become dangerous.

Dolly was kept out of it. He made no attempt to see her. There were times when it would almost seem that he must have forgotten her. She kept to her room when he was about the house, docile as a child in Kate Bartlett's hands; and when she asked in tears when they were going to be set free, she was confronted by Kate's assurance that freedom would come today or else tomorrow.

Once Dolly appeared with a strange tale. She had fled to the granary from the courtyard at the sound of Cooper's voice in the house coming her way. While she was there she had heard voices. English voices, close by, passing beneath her. More, she had thought she recognized one of the voices for that of the Squire's young cousin, Hilary Strangways. So sure had she been that she had called out. Of course the people who passed had not heard her; they had gone too far; and if they had looked back they could not have discovered her peep-hole.

Kate Bartlett shook her head over the recital. To her all English voices were alike. It was most improbable that Master Hilary would be in Audgnac. The poor child's mind was full of the Squire, so, of course she would imagine things.

Dolly slept uneasily that night. At the slightest sound Kate Bartlett would awake and lift herself on her elbow to listen. Dolly cried and struggled and shrieked on her lover to save her from some deadly peril. The woman who was listening to her was cold with fear in the darkness, oppressed by a nameless sense of guilt towards the innocent child in her charge, and her benefactor, the Squire, who had trusted her, after saving her life.

The next day Cooper kept to his room all day. When Kate Bartlett brought in a tray with food he seemed to be asleep. There was a full bottle of brandy on the table beside him. She looked at it; advanced her hand towards it as though she would take it away; then shook her head, and leaving the tray on the table, went out.

That same day Dolly made another discovery. Seeing something glittering on the floor—she could not have imagined how she had overlooked it before—in the alcove where the bed was, she picked the thing up. It was a wedding ring, on which someone had trodden, crushing it almost out of shape.

She was looking at it when Kate came into the room, and, coming to see what the girl was looking at so intently, stared as though it were the Gorgon's Head. To Dolly's amazement she snatched it from her and flung it through the open window; then put her arms about the girl and begged her darling, Miss Dolly to forgive her; she did not know why she had done it; only that it seemed a strange, uncanny thing to find, and she could not bear to see it in her darling's hands.

Later in the afternoon, while Dolly was out of doors, she went quickly upstairs, and, having locked the door of the damask room behind her, she took a bunch of rusty keys and tried them one after another on the closet door of the dressing room which had been locked when they came and had remained locked. She tried many keys before one seemed to fit. After a struggle it turned in the lock, and the door came open.

As Instructed

A shoemaker in a Midland city, getting on well in the way of business, became proud. One day there were a lot of customers in the shop when the shop boy came in to say that the mistress bid him say dinner was ready.

"What's for dinner?" asked the shoemaker.

"Herrings, sir," answered the boy. "All right," said the shoemaker, and when he went in to dinner he reprimanded the boy for not mentioning something decent and big, telling the boy in future always to mention a good feed when there were any people in the shop.

A few days after the boy came to say that dinner was ready.

"What's for dinner?" asked the shoemaker.

"Fish, sir," answered the boy.

"What sort of fish?"

"A whale, sir," replied the boy.

THE PROPER WAY TO USE COPENHAGEN CHEWING TOBACCO

Copenhagen Chewing Tobacco is entirely different from the ordinary "plug" or "fine cut".

It is made of the best, old, rich, high flavoured tobacco.

Being in small grains, it imparts its strength and flavor more freely and fully than tobacco in the usual form.

For this reason, Copenhagen is not chewed; but is placed in the mouth between the lower lip and the gums. A small pinch is all that is necessary to thoroughly satisfy, and those who are using "Copenhagen" for the first time, should take care to use only a small pinch, otherwise "Copenhagen" will be thought to have too much tobacco strength.

"It's the most economical chew".

Note and Comment

"Good as the wheat" is an old motto, about as much the last word in meaning as "Safe as the Bank of England." A bag of No. 1 Northern, clean as a whistle of cockle and foxtail, was a symbol of sure value long before gold was known in the world. Wheat has been found in the Pyramids. The Egyptians just about worshipped wheat. The Bible calls it corn; so do the English. But when we say "good as the wheat" we refer to the bushel of brown, hard kernels worth by Government fixture this year, $2.20.

In the memory of living man when did "good as the wheat" mean more than it does now?

Never. A bag of wheat weighing two bushels and a peck tots up in 1917 to just about the value of a five-dollar gold piece. But of course no man wants gold for his wheat. All he gets is a cheque made out in his favor on some bank and signed by the manager of some elevator company or milling concern. The cheque is converted into bills or goes on deposit. Good wheat; good paper; nobody asks any questions.

Because the company is O. K. and the bank is sound. If any wheat-seller had any doubt of either he would at once demand something else.

"I sold good wheat," he would say. "I want something as good in exchange."

What made the wheat good? The good farmer behind it. A poor farmer can make good seed into poor wheat. What makes the paper money good?

The security of the corporation whose name it bears. The sounder the corporation, the nearer the paper comes to being as good as the wheat. But even a big company may go "broke."

Back of the corporation is a concern whose guarantee on a piece of paper is better than either. The pledge of the Dominion of Canada to pay any man money for value received is as good as the wheat, and as safe as the Bank of England.

The best pledge of the Dominion of Canada to pay is a Canadian Victory Bond; better than checks or bills—AS GOOD AS THE WHEAT! Suppose you change that twenty bags of wheat on wagon, not into a cheque or notes or even gold; but into Canadian Victory Bonds of $50 each, bearing interest at five and a half per cent per annum and as negotiable on the market as the best check or the best load of wheat you ever saw?

It's worth considering.

Only one class of citizens have a right to feel "classy."

They are those who have been accepted for service in class A.

Along with those who'll fight for peace should be placed the men who are going to put up a legal battle for exemption.

The summer weather of the past two weeks has caused a revival of screen doors and windows. Those that had put them away for the winter months had to get them out again as flies were too numerous for real comfort.

The Military

Service Act, 1917

DON'T DELAY! Do It TODAY

THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT is passed; the Proclamation issued October 13th. It is now the bounden duty of every man in Class One to report for service or claim exemption. This includes all bachelors and widowers without children (not otherwise excepted) who were 20 years old on the 13th October, 1917, and whose 34th birthday did not occur before January 1st, 1917.

What To Do

Go to your Post Office and ask for the form for reporting for service or for claiming exemption. The form contains clear instructions for filling in. Do this not later than NOVEMBER 10th.

Beware of the Last Minute Rush

With so many thousands of reports and claims to be dealt with, the rush of Class One Men will grow heavier day by day. You will waste less of your time and serve your own best interests if you avoid the inevitable rush on the last days.

The law is being enforced with the Government and the People first—behind it. Obey the law. Do it today.

Britain Increases Army and Navy Pay

Advance in Pay Involves Sum of 50,000,000 Pounds for First Year
The British cabinet has increased the army and navy pay, although the increases are small compared with the American and Colonial standards. Proficiency pay at the rate of from three to six pence a day will be payable after six months' service, instead of two years, as under the present army rule. There is also an increase of a penny a day for each year of war service. The present compulsory allotment of six pence daily for privates and ten pence for sergeants is abolished.
The navy increase is about the same rate of pay, and the allowances to the army and navy now amount to 255,000,000 pounds yearly. The increases involve 50,000,000 pounds for the first year.

Uncle Sam's Soldiers

Origin of the Marks of Rank are Explained

The marks of rank on the clothing of American military officers are not the same as those used in the British army. An officer with General Pershing's force has explained their origin. The oak leaf, he says, is worn by a captain, and the poplar leaf by a major, because the poplar grows taller than the oak. The eagle signifies a colonel, because the eagle soars over the poplar. The stars are for generals, because the eagle looks towards the stars which shine over all.

An officer's coat sleeve has brown braided ridges, while the enlisted man has merely two rows of stitching. The overcoat of an officer is cuffless and has various braidings to denote rank, while the enlisted man's overcoat has a cuff. The officer also has two bone buttons on the back of his overcoat belt, the enlisted man two bronze buttons. The United States army—London Tit-Bits.

Calgary Rotarians Adopt Little Waif
The Calgary Rotary club has decided to adopt a waif, find a good home for him, supply a surgical operation and furnish a complete education. The time as the boy can earn his own living. Ate Onions Like Apples Lady Shackleton gives the interesting information that the members of her husband's expedition found the greatest benefit from eating raw onions like apples. The ironical tale of "Onions" conferred on them for an obvious reason, explains why onions are banned, but their nutritive and tonic value, particularly in cold conditions, is beyond question. In the Peninsula, laborers in the fields take with them a Spanish onion, which is the pick of the family, just as in this country they would a lump of cheese, and the advantage scientifically is, we believe, on the side of the onion. Bore the war, Breton fishermen, in their blue jerseys, carrying their strings of onions, were a familiar sight every season in English streets.—From the London Globe.

Automobiles in Canada
Motorists continue to be a most vigorous actually in Canada, according to figures given in the Toronto Star, an estimate of $50,000,000 being held as the worth of cars manufactured in this country this year. Those purchased in the same period are placed at 100,000, or five times the number acquired in 1914, or one to about 37 of the population. Canada thus occupies third place among the nations of the world in the use of automobiles—the United States coming first, with 3,000,000 for 110,000,000 people and Britain second with 276,000. This is certainly going some for a young country like ours, with its sparse population; but it must not be overlooked that no inconsiderable number are utilized for agricultural and industrial purposes, causing much economic saving in the labor. Many users are not joy-riders.—Hamilton Spectator.

Accidents to Aviators

Proved a Source of Danger

Accidents of course, are inevitable, and they may not be too frequent in proportion to the number of men who are now in the air every day. It is for the authorities to judge of that, just as it is for them to judge whether an undue number of these accidents can be attributed to avoidable causes. But we are bound to say that the increasing tendency of aviators in this country to perform complicated evolutions very close to the ground suggests to the lay observer that needless risks are being taken. Practice in tactics of this kind is an essential part of the training of the fighting pilot. Except for this purpose, however, and especially in the earlier stages of training, we should have thought them unnecessary and unjustifiably dangerous, however alluring they may be to the building pilot. If so, they should be prohibited at once.—London Times.

Will Suffer from an Economic and Social Boycott

Whether victorious or defeated, Germany is likely to suffer for many years from a social and economic boycott, not necessarily inspired by any government, but the voluntary act of thousands of individuals with whom the feeling of resentment will be keen and lasting. It is probable that it will be many years before any Frenchman or Briton will, without urgent necessity, have business relations with Germans. Travel between the countries will be paralyzed for few Frenchmen or Britons will come to Germany and still fewer Germans will be welcomed in France or Great Britain.

We hardly realize the intensity of feeling which the sufferings and barbarities of this war have brought about. The conclusion seems reasonable that the material prosperity of Germany will suffer immeasurably for years to come from this economic and social boycott, and it is unlikely that when it is further recognized that much of the resentment of the world would disappear if Germany were to transform its autocratic monarchy into a republic or limited monarchy by deposing the Hohenzollern dynasty, that the business interests of Germany will find opportunity to suggest in no unmeaning way that as Germany sacrificed itself for the prestige of the kaiser, the time has come when the kaiser could profitably sacrifice his crown for the benefit of the German people.—Harpers.

No Compromise

There is no compromise. There is no method whereby civilization can be half shackled by a Germany half beaten. Either the shackles will be burst off or Germany will not be beaten. Nor can the struggle be postponed. It is here and now that the world must settle accounts with Germany for all time to come.—Washington Post.

Why the U.S. is at War

We are fighting to save American husbands from being forced to dig graves for their wives. We are fighting to save American babies from being bayoneted. We are fighting to save American women from the flames. Loyal and thinking Americans feel that if the shipwreck on the North sea slackens, and the weary guard from the Yser to Belport is battered down, your cannon would point toward us and soon the trench line would be on the Hudson, the Delaware and the Chesapeake. Detroit Journal.

A Medicine for Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has Relieved the Sufferings of Women.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who continues to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

Mrs. Kieso Cured After Seven Month's Illness.

Aurora, Ill.—"For seven long months I suffered from a female trouble, with severe pains in my back and sides until I became so weak I could hardly walk from chair to chair, and got so nervous I would jump at the slightest noise. I was entirely unable to do my house work. I was giving up hope of ever being well, when my sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and today I am a healthy woman able to do my own housework. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and find out for herself how good it is."
—MRS. KARL A. KIESO, 596 North Ave., Aurora, Ill.

Could Hardly Get Off Her Bed.

Cincinnati, Ohio—"I want you to know the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was in such bad health from female troubles that I could hardly get off my bed. I had been doctoring for a long time and my mother said I want you to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So I did, and it has certainly made me a well woman. I am able to do my house work and am so happy as I never expected to go around the way I do again, and I want others to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."

The Kaiser's Hopeless Task

Prefers the Horrors of War to the Terrors of Reckoning

People have wondered why the kaiser has clung so long—and still clings—to his hopeless task, with all its bloody sacrifice. May it not well be that he prefers even the horrors of war to the terrors of reckoning what peace will bring? War at least is a distraction, and he may well shrink from the cold light peace will throw on his bankrupt Germany—bankrupt not only in the financial sense, but also in the physical, for in using up 1919 class today the kaiser is drawing heavily on the future, and working his man-power on credit as well as his finance. No wonder there is evidence of growing peace-hunger among the people of Berlin—many of whom would be glad to hand over not only Belgium and Alsace, but even the German colonies to the Kaiser and the Crown Prince along with them. And hence the growing anxiety in the government!—Glasgow Herald.

Fixing Wheat Prices

The fixed prices of wheat have put the wheat gambler out of business. After the wheat was out of the farmers' hands this summer, the speculator got busy and fixed the price up an extra dollar; the millers promptly put up the price of flour and the bakers boosted the price of bread. The little game is spoiled for the present year by the price-fixing plan. It would be a very fine thing for Canada if the price of wheat could be fixed each year to allow a reasonable profit to the wheat grower and fixed prices on flour and bread. Gambling in food should be made a crime.—Grain Growers' Guide.

STRONG PEOPLE NEEDED

The need for people to be healthy is urgent. Those whom illness has put outside the ranks of robust men and women feel their position keenly. They are handicapped in every walk of life and weak men and nerve-worn women need more earnestly than ever to put their health right and become active and strong. Many who began "patching" months ago are as ill now as on the day they began tinkering with common drugs. Every ailing man and woman should remember that the ills of debility, nerve exhaustion, indigestion, sleeplessness, neuritis, and depression come from a faulty blood supply. Worry, over-work or other causes have impoverished the blood and left the life-stream impure. The nerves thereby are starving and the whole system is languishing for new blood. In this condition many thousands have won back strong nerves and new health and strength through the new rich blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually makes. In a weak or bloodless condition is not only a waste of time and money, but also a further menace to your health to tinker with common drugs. Follow the example of so many thousands by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial, and they will transform you into healthy, active, men and women.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Herr Ballin's Fate

Fallen at last out of favor with the Kaiser, Germany's greatest shipping director, Albert Ballin of the Hamburg-American Line, can now survey in all its fulness the tragedy which his master's war has made of his great life-work.

It was to him "an idiotic war," and he said so. He was before the war "winning more trenches every day" for Germany than the Kaiser's armies are winning in months, and he said so. His magnificent merchant fleet is now in the use of Germany's enemies or going to pieces in idle and hungry German ports.

The fruits of his genius and forty years of labor have been practically wiped out before his eyes, and that anguish of spirit which must be his can win from the nearest he secured only too well no better consolation than a kick.—New York World.

U. S. Destroyers' Work

Good Work of the U.S. Destroyers in the Forbidden Zone

For military reasons the facts cannot be detailed, but it may be said that the United States destroyers are very active in the protection of vessels in Germany's "forbidden zone," and that the strain on officers and men is heavy. They are exposed to danger from the enemy and from rough weather. "Four days on and four days off" for officers and men on the destroyers and patrols hunting U-boats on the other side means that the navy is doing its full share of hard work; for "four days on" spells for them no rest, little sleep, hard work and hardship. The crews come into port utterly exhausted, but after four days ashore go back, prepared for another turn with the submarines. When the number of ships and their crews and what they have accomplished in the zone, the work of the navy will show that its worth has not been less than its prestige called for.—Army and Navy Journal.

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply on the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

At little cost one can get a small bottle of freezone at any drug store, which will positively rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection. This new drug is an ether compound and does the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue. Just think! You can lift off your corns and calluses now without a bit of pain or soreness. If your druggist hasn't freezone he can easily get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.

Blamed the Shoes

This mistress of the shoes entered the butler's pantry quietly. "James," she said severely. The butler looked up with a guilty flash. "James," she asked, "how is it that whenever I come into the pantry I find your work only half done and you lying down reading the newspaper?" "Well, ma'am," the butler answered. "I should say it was an account of them soft soled shoes you usually wear, ma'am."

Von Tirpitz's Sympathy

The fine Americans who are telling us all the time that this is a capitalistic war on our part have support and sympathy now from their grand old friend, Admiral von Tirpitz, who started the submarine massacre. In a speech to the reactionaries in Berlin he casually remarked that if the Kaiser and God were to be defeated in this conflict it would be by "Anglo-American capital."—New York World.

No More Asthma. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy sounds the death knell of this trying trouble. It stops the awful choking and painful breathing. It wards against night attacks and gives renewed ability to sleep and rest the whole night long. Much is claimed for this remedy, but nothing but what can be demonstrated by a trial. If you suffer from asthma try it and convince yourself of its great value.

Will Be Huns Forever

We can be sure that the Kaiser will carry his bluff to the last ditch. He will hold out while there is a shadow of hope that the allies will weary of the war. For him anything less than a victorious peace would be disaster of the most terrible kind. A German poet pictures the position of Germany in the event of defeat. "Let them call us Huns," he says, "if we can but gain the victory. But let us die first if we are to be called Huns and to be defeated as well."

The allies will come out of the war with clean hands, their head held high, with conscious honor and with a cause in the support of which all the world outside of the central powers is as a common brotherhood.—London Free Press.

The German Fleet

When asked recently by a representative of the Zuricher Zeitung if he believed that a sea fight between the entente fleets and the German in the near future was possible, Admiral Scheer, chief of the German admiralty, smilingly replied: "That depends absolutely on the British." Imprisoned in German ports the German fleet is still repeating: "When will the British come out?" It is over fifteen months since the Germans ventured a trial of strength in the Skagerrak battle, and since that boasted "victory" they have not dared to seek another.—New York World.

Sheep to Stock Manitoba Farms

Hearing that a number of sheep were being sold for slaughter in Ontario, the minister of agriculture for the province thought the opportunity was good for obtaining some of these animals to stock Manitoba farms. The government has, therefore, decided to spend $125,000 in the purchase of sheep in Ontario at once, while the market is at its peak to the farmers in the province.

Can't Afford to Lose

If we should suffer defeat, if the force of our arms and those of our allies should disintegrate, then we should find that nothing on earth matters. Our farms, our factories, and our homes would avail us nothing. We've got to win because we can't afford to lose.—Chicago Tribune.

Get Behind the Wheel of a Ford and Drive

TRY it just once! Ask your friend to let you "pilot" his car on an open stretch. You'll like it, and will be surprised how easily the Ford is handled and driven.

If you have never felt the thrill of driving your own car, there is something good in store for you. It is vastly different from just riding—being a passenger. And especially so if you drive a Ford.

Young boys, girls, women and even grandfathers—thousands of them—are driving Ford cars and enjoying it. A Ford stops and starts in traffic with exceptional ease and smoothness, while on country roads and hills its strength and power show to advantage.

Buy a Ford and you will want to be behind "the wheel" constantly.

MISCONCEPTIONS AS TO THE CAUSE AND AIMS OF THE WORLD WAR

UNITED STATES FIGHTING FOR SELF-PRESERVATION

Lord Northcliffe Says Many People are Deluded by Pro-German Propagandists Into Supposing That This is a Commercial War, But Points Out the Utter Fallacy of Such Reasoning

That the American people are not fighting to make the world safe for democracy, but to make it safe for themselves, is the opinion expressed by Lord Northcliffe, head of the British mission in the United States, in an article printed in the October issue of Current Opinion Magazine. The article, which is headed, "What America is Fighting For," says: "If this country had meant to take up arms in defense of British or French interests, or in the interest of Belgium, or in order to spread democracy, it would not have waited until April, 1917. If its aims had been commercial, it would have been in the war long ago. The motive which brought the United States in was not sympathy for any other nation, was not desire for gain, was not an abstract fondness for democracy as opposed to autocratic government; it was self-interest, self-preservation, and self-respect."

Lord Northcliffe says that the only way for America to make the world safe for herself is to make Prussia admit that her theory of a state which has no conscience, a state which can do no wrong, is out of date.

"The German people," he adds, "have been purposely included into the belief that they are defending themselves against force, that they are upon crushing them out of existence, a design which nobody but a lunatic would conceive or imagine possible of execution. Austria fancies that she went to war to defend herself against Russia, the truth being that she was used as a cat's-paw by the Hohenzollern gang. Bulgaria is still under the delusion that she will gain the reward promised her by Prussian Junkerdom for her treachery to her fellow Slavs."

"Even among the allies there exist misconceptions as to the causes and aims of the struggle. A number of English people still fancy that Britain could have kept out of the conflict if Belgium had not been invaded. These people are still unable to understand that Prussia's object in forcing war upon France and Russia was in order to clear them out of the way and be able to attack England, and, in course of time, the United States, with a good prospect of success later on."

"In Russia the pro-Prussian propagandists have infected many with the crazy notion that the new republic has no interests of its own to defend against Germany, and only remains in the war for the benefit of Prussia and Britain. I have even heard French people speak as if their country took up arms for the purpose of regaining Alsace and Lorraine, whereas we know that France would never have brought upon the world the frightful calamity of war for selfish aims."

Here in the United States, I am told, and I have discovered proof for myself, that there are people deluded by German and pro-German propagandists into supposing that this is a commercial war. It is not very easy to make out exactly what these people mean by that expression. So far as I can learn, they suppose that the cause of the war was commercial rivalry, and that the combatants are each seeking to obtain control of the world's markets."

Denying that the allies are at war for commercial reasons, Lord Northcliffe asks: "What would have been the good of Britain going to war with Germany in order to secure markets? As soon as she had secured them, they would have been open to Germany as freely as to British trade. The German vice-chancellor, Dr. Lortch, has asserted that Great Britain's object was 'the economic oppression of Germany.' How could Britain oppress any nation economically as long as she allowed the traders of all nations to compete with her own traders upon equal terms?"

The peoples of the British empire did not want war. They had nothing to gain from war. They were threatened. They were attacked. Whether Prussia had invaded Belgium or not, they would have been obliged to fight in self-defense. It was not Brussels that the Germans wanted. They wanted Antwerp, which they marched their troops across the Belgian frontier which they had signed a solemn contract to respect. They wanted Antwerp, which Napoleon called, with clear-sighted understanding, 'a pistol pointed at the heart of England.' They wanted an outlet for their sea-going submarines. They wanted Calais.

"The delusion industriously sown in the United States by Germans and those who are in favor of Prussianism, including, I am sorry to say, many Irishmen, that Britain always fights for commercial advantages has long been a Prussian slander. Treitschke, the writer on whose teaching Kaiser Wilhelm II. was nurtured, taught that England's wars were always undertaken with a view to the conquest of markets. He did not explain why England should take so much trouble to conquer markets, seeing that she gave the whole world, including Germany, the benefit of access to them."

Northern Ontario

This new district will one day make one of the finest farming countries in Canada. Farmers are also getting well established in stock raising. Northern Ontario potatoes have become well known for their excellent qualities as seed. Potato growers in the new district of Ontario find very little trouble with insects and the seed gives earlier and larger yields. Farmers are enthusiastic about the possibilities of this new northern country where 7,000 bushels of grain have been produced in a season.

"I've come to kill a printer," said the little man. "Any printer in particular?" asked the foreman, obligingly. "Oh, any one will do. I would prefer to make one out of a fight or leave home since your paper called my wife's tea party a 'swill affair.'"

Our Starving Allies

Position of Invaded Serbia Becomes More and More Serious

The following appeal for help and justice for the starving Serbian people appears in "La Serbie," a weekly paper published by Serbs in exile, and edited by Dr. Lazar Mirkovic, a professor of Belgrade university.

The position of invaded Serbia becomes more and more serious. The population awaits help, which at present reaches it in an absolutely insufficient measure.

The reasons invoked by the allied governments against the sending of foodstuffs to Serbia do not preclude and ought not to preclude the sending of help which, while relieving the famished Serbian population, would in no way weaken the effects of the blockade.

The Swiss committee for Serbian relief provides a sufficient guarantee that the foodstuffs and other indispensable articles will be distributed among the Serbian population, and that this distribution will in no way replace rations accorded by the invaders. As regards flour, in the first place there is in Serbia a great number of people who do not get bread to eat often than once a week. Then there are things that are totally lacking, for example, milk, which if sent to Serbia could save the children who still remain alive from certain death. Clothing and shoes are no longer to be had in Serbia, or are so costly that the population is not in a position to obtain them.

To supply all this to the Serbs would in no way diminish the effects of the blockade, because the persons who would benefit would not cede their rations to the invader, for this simple reason that they are receiving nothing from the invader. One sees, therefore, that military necessities and the exigencies of the most elementary humanity can be reconciled, and with a little more good-will one could arrive at satisfactory results.

It is the duty of the Serbian representatives to explain to our British and American allies that there is no question of any action in favor of the enemy but of the saving of the Serbian population, which is menaced by death from starvation.

We make appeal to the generosity so largely and so often displayed of the British, the French, and the Americans, to rescue our unhappy compatriots from an appalling situation. One may say the same thing of the Serbs interned as prisoners of war, whose fate is most tragic.

What Britain Did

Great Britain first of all upset the German plans for a quick and not costly military victory in Europe. Great Britain upset these plans by entering the war. She gave the power alone reversed the conditions which Germany hoped would prevail. German, not French ports, were blockaded. Germany, not France, was thrown back upon herself and forced to rely upon intensive interior development of materials and manufacture. France was saved by the British fleet and the Germans recognized it by hating the British in a ferocious ecstasy.—From the Chicago Tribune.

A Thieves' Paradise

City of Berlin Now Given Over to Criminals

From a city of order, Berlin is beginning to become a city of disorder, as a lengthy and bitter report in the Berlin Tageblatt clearly shows. In the big railway sheds, where goods are received and distributed there is absolute chaos. An almost endless array of packages, trunks, parcels of all descriptions, are stored there in hopeless disorder; many have been stolen or lost. The public accuses the new officials of stealing them; the officials say that the thefts are due to dishonest cabdrivers and untrustworthy forwarding agents. The great Berlin forwarding agency declares that parcels of all descriptions are stolen by thieves while the conveyance are passing through the streets. The agency in all soberness makes the astounding statement that Berlin is full of thieves, convicted criminals who have been refused admission to the army, serving to make the streets thoroughly unsafe.

Another forwarding company says that it is useless bringing charges against the dishonest drivers, as there are so many of these that the Crown Prosecutor has given it up as a bad job.

Reporters Nip German Plots

Girl Stenographer Used to Trap Agents and Fists Fight Helps

Calling attention to the "stupidity" of German intrigue in the United States and revealing evidence of the German secret service, Dr. William T. Hornum, director of the New York Zoological park, in "The Blunders of Germany," describes how a newspaper man successfully pitted himself against the most astute agents of the Berlin government and exposed their plots.

"One lonesome American newspaper man, John R. Rathbone, of the Providence Journal, had the gall to plant an employee in a secretarial position at His Excellency von Bernstorff's elbow. Also he put a bright American girl stenographer (with a red pencil) in the office of the Austro-Hungarian consul-general in New York and he planted an office on each side of the fake passport factory in New York."

"And it was a Providence Journal man who changed portfolios with the astute Dr. Albert of Austria, and staged a fight in a street car—without extra charges—while that horrible mistake was being made. Nearly 48 hours elapsed before the lynx-eyed doctor noticed the substitution."

"The girl stenographer sat demurely on a big box of incriminating papers just prior to its shipment to Germany, sharing her lunch with the 'threw' of Papan, and dramatically drawing two large red hearts on the box cover. The sentimental von Papan tenderly added a red transfixing arrow. This spooning led to the cheap and easy identification of the box in England."

Bone Surgery Marvels

A narrow officer in the United States medical corps who recently returned to the States from Great Britain is loud in his praises of the work in bone surgery being done in British hospitals. He says: "They can take a rib from a man and use it to replace a crushed bone in his arm. Patients who in earlier times would have been considered permanently disabled are now fixed up in a few weeks so that they can go back to the front. In a single month, in one hospital, we had 1,350 bone cases, and 1,000 of them were ready at the end of the month to go back and fight again."

Theodore Roosevelt, speaking in New York at a "Women's Service" mass meeting under the auspices of the mayors' committee on national defense, declared the only peace which will make the world safe for democracy must be based upon the complete overthrow of Austria and Turkey. Included in the program he outlined were a free Arabia and Armenia, Poland and Lithuania, with an independent Czech commonwealth and a Jugo-Slav state.

"Continually," he said, "I think the circulation of such rumors is injurious to America and to the cause of democracy and democracy should make it clearly understood that the conduct of Germany has been such that we regard its enemies as mankind all people who would strive to bring about a peace based upon treating Germany, Austria and Turkey on the one hand, and the allies on the other, as standing on a footing of equality. The only peace that will make the world safe for democracy is a peace based upon the complete overthrow of Germany and the dissolution of Austria and Turkey."

"Unless we have used the phrase in a hypocritical and insincere manner, this is the way to make the world safe for democracy, and the only way; and this means that the only peace we will accept is a peace of overwhelming victory. Turkey's conduct toward the Armenian and Syrian Christians has been such as to make it evident that the Turk must not only be driven out of Europe, but his empire destroyed. Give Arabia freedom, give Armenia freedom. Establish a free city at Constantinople and keep the straits absolutely open for the Russians and for every European power."

"Make a great independent Poland and probably a great independent Finland, too. Give the Lithuanians at least autonomy; make an independent Czech commonwealth to include the Bohemians, Moravians and Slovaks. Make a Jugo-Slav commonwealth to include on a footing of equality Croats, Serbians and Slovenes; whether Orthodox, Catholic or Mohammedan. Restore Italian Austria to Italy. Restore Roumania Hungary to Roumania."

"As for Belgium, she is not only entitled to restitution, but to the heaviest kind of indemnity. Let France have Alsace-Lorraine; let Poland include the whole Baltic coast to which she is entitled. Let the British and the Japanese keep the colonies they have won."

The Pilot's Heart

A Pride That Only a Pilot Can Know

"The romance of the air," writes an aviator of some experience, "is a different thing from mascots and superstitions. It is not bound up in the machines. It is something deep down in its own grain and callous self. Those who know it best acknowledge it least. And the pilots themselves—do they speak of a 'lucky' or an 'unlucky' pilot? Never. They speak only of a 'good' pilot or a 'bad' one. The only time a man is told he is lucky is when he has failed to break his neck despite bad piloting. Flying is a cruel mistress. Only a pilot knows what she does to a pilot's heart. Where are the young pilots? At the aerodromes learning to fly. They are nowhere else. But bound up in the romance there is a pride that only a pilot can know. It is the pride of the self-dependent."

Lots of people take offense when there is none in sight.

The less a woman has to complain about the more she complains.

Will Class One Provide The One Hundred Thousand Men?

It will be greatly to the advantage of Canada if the entire quota of 100,000 men to be raised under the Military Service Act can be secured from the first class; that is, from the men between the ages of 20 and 34 who were unmarried or widowers without children on July 6th, 1917.

This is almost self-evident for the following reasons:

It is admitted that, between the ages of 20 and 34, the average man is at the height of his physical strength and is most adaptable to the change of conditions from civilian life; the military service of unmarried men and widowers without children would occasion less distress than that of most others, since they are largely without dependents. Also, it would entail less financial burden for Canada, through separation allowances, etc.

Authorities estimate that, after all proper exemptions have been allowed, Canada should be able to produce from the first class 100,000 men fit for service, so the drain upon the man power of the country will not be severe.

Members of Class One will be well advised to present themselves for examination immediately to the Medical Board in their district. Upon examination as to their physical fitness, they will be placed in one of the following categories:

Category A—fit for service in overseas fighting units.
Category B—fit for service overseas in Army Medical Corps, Forestry Battalion, etc.
Category C—fit for service in Canada only.
Category E—fit for military service of any nature.

If not placed in Category A, the applicant will know that he is not liable for immediate service, but will go to the Post Office and send in a claim for exemption with his Medical Certificate attached, when he will receive in due course a certificate of exemption until those in his medical category are summoned for service.
Where a man, who is placed in category A, feels that exemption should be allowed, an application form can be secured from the postmaster. This form, when filled in, will be forwarded by the postmaster to the registrar of the district, and the applicant will be informed by mail as to the time and place for the consideration of his application by the Exemption Board.

Issued by The Military Service Council.
